MISCELLANY.

MISS FANNY KEMBLE.

BY MRS JAMESON.

Fanny Kemble made her first appearance in the character of Juliet, October the 6th, 1829, and bade a last farewell to the London audience in May, 1832; during these three years she played through a very diversified range of parts, both in tragedy and high comedy. Sustained by her native genius and good taste, and by the kindly feelings of her audience, she could not be said to have failed in any, not even in those which her inexperience and extreme youth rendered premature, to say the least. She never—except in one or two instances—had a voice in the selection of her parts, which, I think, was in some cases exceedingly injurious, as far as her individual powers were concerned. The only parts which, to my knowledge, she chose herself, were Portia, Camiola, and Julia in the Hunchback. She was accused of having declined playing Inez de Castro in Miss Mitford's tragedy, and I heard her repel that accusation indignantly. She added:—"Setting aside my respect for Miss Mitford, I never, on principle, have refused a part. It is my business to do whatever is advantageous to the whole concern, to do as much good as I can; not to think of myself. If they should bid me act Scrub, I would act it!" I know that she played in several contrary to her own opinion, taste, and judgment, and from a principle of duty. Not duty only, but a feeling of delicacy, natural to a generous mind, which disdains the appearance of presuming on her real power, rendered her docile, in some instances, to a degree which I regretted, while I loved her for it. She had a perception of some of the traditional absurdities of dress, and ridiculous technical anomalies of theatrical arrangements, which she had not power to alter, and which I have seen her endure with wondrous good temper. Had she remained on the stage, her fine taste and original and powerful mind would have carried the public with her in some things she had contemplated: for instance, she had an idea of restoring King Lear, as originally written by Shakespeare, and playing the real Cordelia to her father's Lear.—When left to her own judgment, she ever thought more of what was worthy and beautiful in itself, than she calculated on the amount of vulgar applause it might attract, or the sums it might bring to the treasury.

Thus, for her first benefit she played Portia, a character which no vain, self-confident actress would have selected for such an occasion; because, as the play is now performed, the part is comparatively short, is always considered of secondary importance, and affords few effective points: this was represented to her; but she persisted in her choice: and how she played it out of her own heart and soul! how she revelled in the poetry of the part, with a conscious sense and enjoyment of its beauty, which were communicated to her audience! Self, after the first tremon, was forgotten, and vanity lost in her glowing perception of the charm of the character. She lamented over every beautiful line and passage which had been "cut out" by profane hands. To those which remained, the rich and mellow tones of her voice gave added power, blending with the music of the verse. It was by her own earnest wish that she played Camiola, in Massinger's Maid of Honor, and this was certainly one of her most exquisite and most finished parts; but the quiet elegance, the perfect delicacy of the delineation were never appreciated. She was aware of this: she said, "The first rows of the pit, and the first few boxes will understand me; for the rest of that great theatre I ought to play as they paint the scenes—in great splashes of black and white." Bianca, in Milman's Fazio, was another of her finest parts, and as it contained more stage effect, it told more with the public. In this character she certainly took even her greatest admirers by surprise.—The expression of slumbering passion, and its gradual development, were so fervently portrayed, and yet so nicely shaded; the frenzy of jealousy, and the alienation of intellect, so admirably discriminated, and so powerfully given, that when the first emotions had subsided, not admiration only, but wonder seized upon her audience: nor shall I easily forget the pale composure with which she bore this—one of her most intoxicating triumphs.

In Constance, in Queen Katherine, in Lady Macbeth, the want of amplitude and maturity of person, of physical weight and power, and a deficiency both of experience and self confidence, were against her—but her conception of character was so true, and her personal resemblance to her aunt so striking, in spite of her comparatively diminutive features and figure, that one of the best and severest of our dramatic critics said, "it was like looking at Mrs Siddons through the wrong end of an opera glass."

She had conceived the idea of giving quite a new reading, which undoubtedly would have been the true reading, of the character of Katherine of Arragon, and instead of playing it with the splendid poetical coloring in which Mrs. Siddons had arrayed it, bringing it down to the prosaic delineation which Shakespeare really gave, and history and Holbein have transmitted to us; but the experiment was deemed too hazardous—and it was so. The public at large would never have understood it. The character of the queen mother, in her own tragedy of Francis I., was another part of which the weight seemed to overwhelm her youthful powers, and after the first few nights she ceased to play it.

While on the English stage, she never became so far the finished artist as to be independent of her own emotions, her own individual sentiments. It was not only necessary that she should understand a character, it was necessary that she should feel it. She invariably excelled in those characters in which her sympathies were awakened. In Juliet, in Portia, in Camiola, in Julia, (perhaps the most popular of all her parts,) and I believe I may add, in Bianca, she will not soon or easily be surpassed. For the same reason, if she could be said to have failed in any part, it was that of Calista, which she abhorred, and never, I believe, could comprehend. Isabella was another part which I think she never really felt; she never could throw her powers into it. The bold style and the prosaic monotonous misery of the first acts, in which her aunt called forth such torments of tears, wearied her; though the tragic of the situations in the last act roused her, and was given most effectively. She had not, at the time she took leave of us, conquered the mechanical part of her profession—the last, but not the least necessary department of her art, which it had taken her aunt Siddons seven years, and Pasta almost as long, to achieve; she was to much under the influence of her own nerves and moods of feeling; the warm blushes, the hot tears, the sob, the tremor, were at times too real. After playing in Mrs. Beverly, Bianca, and Julia, the physical suffering and excitement were sometimes most painful, and the performance of Constance actually deprived her of her hearing for several hours, and rendered her own voice inaudible to her; this, it will be allowed, was paying somewhat dear for her laurels, even though she had valued them more than in truth she ever did.

Fanny Kemble, as one of a gifted race, "the latest

* The resemblance was in the brow and eye. When she was sitting to Sir Thomas Lawrence, he said, "These are the eyes of Mrs. Siddons." She said, "You mean like those of Mrs. Siddons?" "No," he replied, "they are the same eyes, the construction is the same, and to draw them is the same thing."

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1834.

For the Boston Morning Post.

Bank Humbug.—We sometimes doubt, whether there be a people on the globe, not even excepting the English, so obnoxious to gullibility as the opposition party in the United States. Their great politicians seem to practise upon this peculiarity to an almost unlimited extent, and with an unblushing impudence that is often really astonishing. Many of their editors, too, admit articles, and even copy them from other papers, the slightest glance at which, by a person of mere common sense, would detect the most idiotic absurdities. We verily believe, that if some hired scribbler of the U. S. Bank should write down 5,000 and 7,000 under each other, and then put down underneath them one million as the sum total of the two, the calculation would pass current through all the Wig papers, as a perfect mathematical demonstration.

The Courier of the 16th has, on its first page, an article under the head of "The Currency," taken from the National Intelligencer, in which are attempted to be set forth the great advantages which have been derived to the government and the country from the U. S. Bank. The gist of it is comprised in the following extract, upon which we shall offer a few remarks:—"premising, however, that to any person, who has ever 'cyphered' as far as the Single Rule of Three," the supposition that these remarks are necessary, ought to be considered almost as an insult. Here follows the extract:—

"The Bank paid to the Government, for its charter, a bonus of $1,500,000
Which was applied to the payment of the public debt, and of course stopped the interest on that amount, which, for 20 years would be dividends on stock held by the Government at 5 per cent.
Saved, by the Bank performing the duties of the Comptroller of the Banks, one for each of the twenty-four States.
Lost, by the Bank's assuming the payment of the debts due from the State Banks, and gained by the Government, say

300,000
Total, 11,300,000

The United States have thus derived an advantage from the establishment of the Bank of the U. States, of eleven millions eight hundred thousand dollars."

We will examine these items in their order. First, the Bank paid to the government, for its exclusive privilege, only a million and a half;—whereas it is actually worth twenty millions. A great number of the most shrewd and wealthy merchants and capitalists of Boston, of both political parties, petitioned Congress, not long since, for a similar charter, for which they offered a consideration equal to twenty millions. Thus the government has lost eighteen millions and a half by the bonus bargain with the present Bank, instead of gaining one million and a half! This alters the affair a little.

Second, interest is added on the bonus, for twenty years. The reason of this is not easily perceived. It was a payment for value received, never to be refunded. If A pays B ten thousand dollars for an estate sold him, he might with as much propriety calculate twenty years interest on that amount, and say he paid that sum in addition. Why twenty years should be assumed, any more than any other number, we cannot imagine. The payment was made without limit, forever, never to be refunded; the interest therefore might as well have been cast for one hundred, or one thousand years, or for all eternity, as for twenty years. The extent of the charter was, it is true, for twenty years;—but that has not the least connexion with the principle of casting interest on one's own bona fide property in his own use, either for a longer or a shorter term.—

New Jersey.—The Democratic State Convention held in New Jersey on the 11th inst., was very fully attended, and its proceedings are of the most harmonious and satisfactory character.

The Congress ticket agreed upon by the Convention, and recommended to the cordial support of the democracy of New Jersey, is as follows:—PHILEMON DICKERSON, of Essex; SAMUEL FOWLER, of Sussex; FERDINAND S. SCHENCK, of Somerset; JAS. PALMER, of Middlesex; WILLIAM N. SHINN, of Burlington; THOMAS LEE, Cumberland.

It appears by the Philadelphia Intelligencer that a BankTory, by the name of Ash, went to a democratic meeting, got into a quarrel, and was cut with a knife by a member of the meeting—at this the Intelligencer, a paper for which the Bank gave $20,000, set up a most horrible hue and cry, and charges the violence committed upon Ash upon the whole democratic party! Does the Intelligencer remember Pleasant's ruffian assault upon Gov. Daniels, and the Bank Tory insult offered at Bangor to Col. Parks, his lady and his children? Shut thy mouth, renegade.

We never knew Maj. Noah to bear a defeat with so bad a grace as he has that which attended his trumpet battle—he snaps like a beaten cur, showing his teeth to every body who passes him. Laugh it off, Major, as you did the defeat of your election. That little paragraph of yours in reply to the Times about the singers, is mighty spleeny—how's your digestion? We suspect that Seward and Stillwell lie heavy upon your stomach.

We suspect the Bank has been curtailing its appropriations for "Stationary."—the Philadelphia Intelligencer having been printed on brown and miserable paper for several days. The Intelligencer seems anxious to earn another "accommodation" by its intemperate support of the mammoth.

Military.—At a meeting of the Officers of Volunteer Companies of the First Brigade First Division of Mass. Militia, held at Quincy on the 16th inst., Col. Wm. H. Spooner was elected Col.; Col. Appleton Howe Lt. Col., and Capt. Samuel Knowler, Major of the Lt. Infantry Regt. Also, Capt. John Webber of the Battalion of Artillery.

A rare chance for the Haut Ton.—The proprietor of the mammoth hog, now on exhibition in Flagg Alley, advertises that he has made such arrangements as cannot fail to satisfy the most genteel company.

John McDaniel, Jr., has been appointed Warden of the New Hampshire State Prison, by the Governor and Council of that State, rice A. P. Stinson, Esq.

The subjects for newspaper paragraphs are rather scarce "about this time"—the Editors must club together and send up a balloon, or do something else for an excitement.

Mr Mills made a handsome and gratifying Balloon ascension, at Philadelphia, on Monday afternoon, and it is said that many thousands were present.

A beautiful and interesting sketch of Miss FANNY KEMBLE, in her public and private character, may be found upon our First Page.

The New York Board of Health have voted to discontinue their daily reports.

Cholera at Halifax.—From the 3d to the 13th inst. 205 deaths—124 remaining.—C. H. Books.

Extensive Robbery.—Mr Matthew Pratt, of Madison County, New York, was robbed yesterday morning, while at the barber's shop, corner of Courtland and Greenwich streets, of his pocket book, containing about $3,200. Among the bills were two of $100, and one of $20, of the Utica Bank, seven of $50 of the Madison County Bank, and two of $50 of the U. S. Bank, and about $600 in 5's of the U. S. and Utica Banks.—N. Y. Times.

POLICE COURT.

A Lumper-dropper [i. e. wharf-cat.] was the professional appellation given to a young, clear-complexioned, good looking lady, who answered to the name of Mary Ann McCabe, and was charged, in defiance of her prepossessing appearance, with being a common drunkard. The column of attack upon Mary Ann's character, was led by a creature attired in calico fragments, with dishevelled hair, and a countenance that would have condemned her before any physiognomical jury in Christendom. She charged the defendant briskly, by swearing—"She's common drunk entirely every day, may it please ye'r honor." Having effected a breach in Mary Ann's reputation, the witness retreated to make room for her husband to carry her to the House of Correction by storm. He blazed away in severe style, as follows—"She came to our house to stop till her husband came out of the House of Correction, and she proffered to take care of our young chilt, for the bit she might ate, but I caught her three or four times with a drop taken; and yesterday, when I come home, they said that me little chicken was kilt, and on going up stairs, I found her laying on the poor bit of babe, which was almost a spoilt chilt, by razion of being flattened out and smothered." This was a lamentable tale told by a more lamentable looking wight, who seemed to be the aggregate of woe personified; but so potent were the charms of Mrs McCabe, that notwithstanding the plain facts proved, we thought we perceived a reluctance on the part of the learned Judge to pass sentence.

"She certainly does not appear like one habitually temperate," said he, "while the witnesses against her don't look exactly the thing; and I shall therefore—"

"Discharge her" (thought we, mentally concluding the sentence of the Judge.)—"Blessings on your honor's mercy-loving heart, that is not impervious to the beams of a bright eye, and is so easily softened by the bland beauty of a sweet countenance bedewed with tears!" we were about to exclaim, when, as if to confirm the illiberal dogma of Pope, that,

"Love seldom haunts the breast where learning lies;

And Venus sets ere Mercury can rise"—

"—And therefore I must call some other witness."

And clinching witnesses they were—one called her a "lumper-dropper," and the other said her husband was in the House of Correction, and her children in the Alms-house, and that she herself had been an inmate of both these rendezvous of the wretched. Mary Ann saw it was no use to show fight, under existing circumstances, and very humbly observed—"Be as reasonable with me as you can, if you please, yer honor."

Court.—Well, I will—I generally give six months on the second heat, but being it's you, and you don't took so bad as some do, there is a little hope that a shorter period may be as serviceable to you as a longer one to others more abandoned, and I shall only give you five months, which I hope will be sufficient to release you."

And this is the way his honor generally talks it into them.

Stealing a ride.—A great breeze was raised on Wednesday night, by a rumor, that Walton, the fugitive highwayman, had stolen a horse and chaise, which was left standing, at a shop door, in Cambridge street.

But the joke was too good to be true; and the facts upon which Dame Rumor predicated her flying intelligence, were simply these:—About 7 o'clock in the evening, the horse and chaise, the property of Messrs Nevers and Moses, were left as above mentioned, by Mr William W. Creese, but was driven off by some person unknown. Mr C. then went into an oyster shop, close by, to ask if they had seen any one drive off the chaise, and the keeper of the oyster replied, that he saw a man, that looked like Walton, take the horse by the head.

Without further deliberation, Mr C. flew on the wings of the wind to the different printing offices, with a flaming advertisement of "Stop Thief!" In the meantime, one of Mr French's oysters fell in with the chaise, in Leverett street, with two Ann street blades in it, each freely using a whip, and driving like Jehu.

The oyster hailed the bursters, and stopped the chaise, when Sam Robinson, the foremost man, jumped out, and escaped; but his partner in the game, William Jenkins, was pinned, carried to jail, and from thence to the court, where the facts were proved as clear as daylight, and he was ordered to give bonds, to the amount of $600, for his appearance to the Municipal Court. He rather demurred to this arrangement, and observed—"It will incommod me a little to attend court, as I have shipped for a voyage, and I'm afraid they'll feel a little disappointed, if I don't go."

Court.—I suppose it is inconvenient.

But as William found it also "inconvenient" to get sureties, he was still farther "incommoded" by a commitment to jail.

The Roxbury Bank Robber.—Constable Reid arrested Thomas Slater, at the Washington Coffee House, yesterday forenoon, upon a warrant, for robbing the Roxbury Bank, on the 5th or 6th of August last, of $23,500. The circumstances which led to the arrest of Slater, are as follows:—A few days after the occurrence of the robbery, a large amount of the Roxbury money was received at one of the New Banks, in exchange, at a discount, for Mexican dollars, and it was ascertained, yesterday, by Mr John Lemist, President of the Roxbury Bank, that Slater had re-exchanged a considerable amount in Mexican dollars, at the North and New England Banks, of this city, in consequence of which he entered a complaint at the Police Court, before which Slater was arraigned, and ordered to recognize, with sureties, in the sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars, for his appearance for further examination, on the 27th instant, by which time, it is expected that witnesses will be procured from New York, to testify respecting the exchange of specie for bills, in this city, and to identify the prisoner and the money. The personal effects, with a considerable amount of money, has been secured by Mr Reid.

Extensive Robbery.—Mr Matthew Pratt, of Madison County, New York, was robbed yesterday morning, while at the barber's shop, corner of Courtland and Greenwich streets, of his pocket book, containing about $3,200. Among the bills were two of $100, and one of $20, of the Utica Bank, seven of $50 of the Madison County Bank, and two of $50 of the U. S. Bank, and about $600 in 5's of the U. S. and Utica Banks.—N. Y. Times.

Bragging.—The Chronicle boasts that "every breeze bears on its bosom some intelligence to cheer the hearts of the whigs." Like their western victories, it is all wind.—Balt. Rep.

An expert and daring thief entered the sleeping chamber of Mrs Chandler, of 28 Thomas street, while she was in bed, and stole from a drawer $180 in specie.—A large amount of money, in the same place, escaped his observation.—N. Y. Star.

Mr Jacob Sheets, of Staunton, Va. was killed in a well, into which he had descended, by the accumulation of foul air.

A pig with five feet has been born at Bethania, Lancaster Co. Penn., to the no small astonishment of the farmers thereabouts.

Daring House Breakers.—Some bold fellows broke last night, into residence No. 58 Belknap street, occupied by the Editor's father. They crossed over a wood shed, broke a pane of glass, and removed the fastening of the kitchen window, by which they entered the house. They were unable to ascend to the parlor or chambers, being prevented by a strongly locked door at the head of the kitchen stairs. They committed no outrage, stole nothing but a case knife, kindled a fire on the kitchen hearth and retired. It appears that they went thence, to the residence of Mr William H. Ward, No. 24 Mount Vernon street, (after attempting to force the gate of the contiguous house occupied by the Rev. Dr. Wainwright,) which they entered by climbing over the gate into the yard, forcing open the outer blinds and breaking off the fastenings which secured a window—by forcing a knife or chisel between the sashes—and gaining access to a basement room.

On the family coming down stairs yesterday morning, they found every thing in strange disorder and regular confusion.

The rogues had spread a table in the basement room in magnificent style. In the centre they had placed an astral lamp, and at the corners, candles, which were all lighted and burning. The castors and salts were in their places; and where it is the custom to put one or two spoons, they had arranged six or eight, in all, table and tea spoons, three or four dozen.

They regaled themselves with a bottle of wine, made free with a cold ham, and had a bottle of unbrought ale at hand, and a cork screw ready in case of necessity.

From the basement room they ascended to the parlor, where they lighted two wax tapers which they found on a centre table, examined a book case, and left the room uninjured. In the basement room there was a secretary, the top of which they carried into the cellar and thoroughly ransacked, scattering the papers in every direction.

Taking leave of the premises, they very politely addressed the occupant the subjoined note, written with his own pen and ink, upon his own paper, and must be acknowledged a very pretty P. P. C.

We did not come here to hurt you. But if you had any ready cash we would have taken it. Put as you have not. Will leave your house as we found it.

We intend to leave the city this morning at five o'clock and we are if you mention this transaction we will burn down your house and kill you the first time you come to new York.

Your Watchmen are of little consequence. Where we are

On the gate over which they climb, was an alarm bell, the tell-tale tongue of which they silenced by cramping its mouth with papers.

We should have mentioned before, that the case knife, stolen from Mr Walter's house, was found on the mantel piece in the basement room of Mr Ward's. They did not leave the house entirely empty-handed, but carried with them six table napkins, that were not marked—eighty cents, which they found in the kitchen, belonging to a domestic—yellow silk handkerchief, marked R. B.—and the contents of a musical work box, to wit: the music making machinery, the pearl-handled scissors, pearl thimbles, bodkin, &c. &c.—leaving the empty case as too cumbersome for transportation.—Transcript.

A Short Story.—A young man, a baker, named Raney, married five years since, a beautiful and industrious young woman in this city. They had one child, a fine boy. Two years afterwards he deserted her.—She took the boy in her arms, and travelled on foot all through Canada, in a fruitless search after him; she returned disheartened to this city a year since, and was found one night laying dead on the steps of a house corner of Grand and Attorney streets, with the boy sleeping by her side. He was taken care off by Mr and Mrs Owens, 153 Hudson street. But the husband having refused to provide for it, and yet annoying them in various ways about the child, they sought the protection of the Police Office, which was extended to them.—N. Y. Trans.

From Pernambuco.—We learn by Capt Mattison, of the brig Globe, arrived at this port this morning, says a Baltimore paper of Monday afternoon, in 29 days from Pernambuco, that all was quiet at P. when he sailed. The government had commenced issuing paper money to redeem the copper currency, and some hope was entertained of an improvement. Flour was retailing at 17/-—Tea, Hyson, 1/- 40—other articles dull. The crops of sugar and cotton were expected to be very good.—N. Y. Star.

Accounts from Halifax to the 3d instant, state that the cholera raged without abatement, and the number of cases was increasing. The whole number of cases from the commencement was 378—deaths 161. On the 2d there were 28 new cases and 18 deaths. The disease has spread over the whole town.—N. Y. Gaz.

A Novelty.—The schr. Sarah Ann, Capt. Ayres, 48 hours from Philadelphia, arrived yesterday afternoon, via the Delaware and Raritan canal. She has a full cargo of merchandise, consigned to A. & T. F. Cornell, and other merchants in this city. Should this mode of conveyance between the two cities meet a due share of patronage, a daily line, we understand, will be commenced.

This is the first vessel that has reached our city through this canal.—Ib.

A. WATKINS, THOMSONIAN BOTANIC PHYSICIAN.—Infirmary, Harvard street, (opposite 499 Washington street,) Boston.—Has been acquainted with and possess of a right to Dr. Samuel Thomson's Patent Vegetable Medicine. These baths are well known to the medical faculty as being patronized by the most eminent Physicians of Europe, and South and North America, (including the West India Islands,) and with as much success as any other can, (with truth,) boast of. In the nine months' practice he has had at the Harvard street Infirmary, he has not had the misfortune to lose one patient, although many of them had been for years in the hands of the members of the Medical Faculty, and some of them abandoned by their (supposed) hopeless fate. As he is so well known in Boston, it is unnecessary to enter very largely into a detail of success. The following are a few of his patients:

Stephen Gore, (inquire at Thomas Hollan's Beach street, Boston,) totally blind for about 5 months, one eye, nearly destroyed, general debility, legs swollen and lame—appeared completely charged with poisons. General health restored; eye sight good—could see to read (without glasses) in 5 courses, &c. better than he could for seven years previous.

Mr. Parker, now assistant at the Infirmary, rheumatism and dyspepsia, cured in 3 courses.

Francis Kemly, 153 Court street, Boston, severe indigestion and spasmodic fits, &c.

Thomas Pierson of Roxbury, and keeps a stall in the new Market, Boston, erysipelas in the face and one eye; leg very much swollen and ulcerated from the knee to the ankle for the last 25 years—attended by many physicians; nearly cured in 5 weeks.

Miss Charlotte Pierson, do, white swelling with loss of appetite, &c. under medical treatment 5 months, and unable to walk—cured in 3 weeks.

Jesse Brown, baker, of Roxbury, rheumatic and retrocedent gout, rheumatism, knees, ankles and toes greatly affected; had been confined to bed nine weeks—cured in 4 courses, &c.

Miss A. Brown, his daughter, scrofula or king's evil, cured with 4 courses, &c.

J. D. Smith, of Lexington, dyspepsia, of several years continuance—cured in 3 courses, &c.

Samuel Hawes, of Weymouth, rheumatism in the back, strictures in the urinary passage, general emaciation, &c.—cured in 6 courses, &c.

Smith, calico printer, of Lynn, pain in the stomach and back, and strictures across the breast, &c.—cured in 2 courses.

Toll of Shepard street, Lynn, fits and severe colic, from indigestion—cured in 2 days.

Beth Morgan, of Salem, cancerous or scorbutic humors, hand necrosis, debility and loss of flesh; piles severe, and unable to dress or undress himself for a considerable time—cured with 5 courses, &c.

Joseph Kerrier, of Salem, rheumatism in his shoulders and arms—cured in 2 courses, &c.

Sarah Town, of Andover, indigestion, severe pains throughout the system, and piles—cured with 3 courses, &c.

Mrs. Lucinda Kerr, Sea street, Boston, salt rheum; top of the head one entire scarf—cured in 4 courses, &c.

The practice will be at the expense to enumerate more cases, at present. He will not incur any fees, they are almost too ephemeral in the hands of a physician unacquainted with his duty—the ignoramus or continued fever, is unknown to the practice of such. Delicacy will not permit the naming of several diseases, which he has treated with universal success. In almost all the cases of diseases which have been treated by him, he has been under the necessity to expel not only the disease, but the poisons which produced and contaminated them—and all with INNOCENT and HARMLESS SIMPLIES.

This practice induces him to believe he is not too bold in separating the Thomsonian treatment removes both disease and the poison from the Medical Faculty from the human system when reduced to its sensible time.

For Medicine, Family Rights to use the same, Robinson's Lectures, &c. at the usual prices, apply as above, of

ANDREW WATKINS,

Agent for Dr. SAM'L THOMSON.

D. R. WARNER'S PURIFYING VEGETABLE POWDERS. Of Family BITTERS—yielding its aromatic power or water.

As a security against counterfeits, the label will be signed by the wholesale agent, PARSON BARNES. Likewise the steel plate will be observed, as there is a spurious article, which has been offered to the public.

In the spring of the year, every one is troubled more or less with a propensity to sleep, and by the use of this corrective it can be obviated entirely. For purifying and eradicating all kinds of humors from the blood, even if they appear externally in the face, or any part of the body, it is much better and more efficacious than any external application; in fact I shall find it to fail proving effectual.

The patient will find it operates more in the blood than any other preparation they ever refer to, than salts, sulphur, cream tartar, or any other preparation of this kind, for when the blood is once purified with this corrective, it remains in even temperature through the summer months. For bad stomach, jaundice, general debility, weakness of limbs, want of appetite, bilious and liver complaints, headache, stupor, &c. For the catarrh, which is generally occasioned by the impure state of the blood, there is nothing extant that has proved so efficacious as this purifying corrective. For all the above complaints it is seldom known to fail in proving an effectual remedy.

It is really worth the public attention, as every one is aware of the unpleasant, dull, heavy feeling, which the spring of the year produces; and by the use of this corrective, it can be obviated entirely. Every one who makes use of the above preparation, will be astonished at the mild and gentle effect it has on the blood.

CERTIFICATES.

This is to certify, that I have been troubled in the spring and summer seasons with a dull and stupid feeling, which very much troubled me while about my business, and by taking some of Warner's Purifying Powders, I have found it a perfect remedy. Confidence recommend it to others who may be similarly affected.

ELIAS PIKE.

Boston, April 16th, 1832.

Joseph Moore, of Boston, certifies that he has taken Warner's Family Corrective, or Purifying Powder for purifying the blood, and curing of jaundice, and likewise removing the propensity to sleep, and has found it an effectual remedy.

APRIL 1st, 1832.

I hereby certify that I have taken Warner's Vegetable Purifying Powder for the cure of the jaundice; likewise for purifying the blood, and removing the propensity for sleep which I have received in the spring of the year. From the benefit which I have received for the above complaints, I cordially recommend it to all that may be similarly affected.

JOHN B. FINN.

Feeling grateful for the benefit which I have received from taking Dr. Warner's Vegetable Bitters, for the cure of the jaundice, weakness of the limbs, want of appetite, indigestion, &c. do recommend it as a safe and efficacious remedy for the above complaints.

P. COFFIN.

Boston, March 1, 1833.

Other reference to its efficacy may be had by calling on the agent. To be had at wholesale of my sole agent in this city, PARKER BARNES, No. 424 Washington street, and retailled at all the principal Druggists in Boston and vicinity. Attn 16th

I. RON SAFES.—S. A. & W. G. PIERCE. Agents for selling Gaynor's Patent Double Fire Proof Watch Case, Iron Chests and Safes, 370 Washington-street, have now on hand a large assortment, comprising all the sizes and kinds which are calculated for the use of Banks, Insurance Offices, Town Records, Merchants, and others.

The above Chests are double throughout in all their parts, with double doors, each secured with Chubb's Patent Detector Locks, which cannot be picked; and the Chests are as completely Fire Proof as any vault or chest can be made.

Proof of which can be seen by those who will take the trouble to call at the Agent's Store and examine a Double Chest which has passed through a very severe fire, and preserved a valuable collection of papers, belonging to John St. John, Esq., whose name is attached to the following certificate.

"This is to certify, that one of the above described Double Safes, which I purchased of the Messrs. S. A. & W. G. Pierce was in my office in this town, when the office was burned on the 2d day of November last—the building was of two stories, wooden, and large. The Safe, weighing 700 lbs. fell from the second story into the cellar, and was exposed to an intense heat for nearly three hours. It was for a long time literally reduced to ashes, and all the account books, notes, and court-papers, that were in my office, and no paper was in the least degree burnt or rendered illegible." JOHN S. ABBOTT.

The above Chest, and some of the papers which were in it at the time of the fire, are now at the Agents' store, corner of Essex and Washington streets, and any individual or corporation who are about purchasing Iron Safes for the protection of their books and papers, will find it for their advantage to call and examine them, and they will be perfectly satisfied that Gaynor's Double Safes are what they are represented to be—FIRE PROOF! and they will be still further satisfied that none other but the Double Safe would stand a severe fire.

Gaylor's Double Safes are a Patent article, and can only be legally purchased in this city of S. A. & W. G. PIERCE, who are his authorized Agents.

APRIL 1st, 1831.

The cloths from which these articles are made, are manufactured at the Roxbury India Rubber Factory.

Great cloths of every quality have been made in the covering of the cloths, and in the manufacture of the garments, and on the known qualities of the India Rubber, as well as from the numerous testimonies in favor of their goodness, by those who have given them a fair trial, they are recommended to the public with the utmost confidence that they will perfectly answer the purpose for which they are designed.

Stage Drivers, Sportsmen, Seamen, Firemen, Travellers, and all others exposed to the wet will find such protection from the use of the India Rubber Garments, as can be obtained from nothing else.
